

REDUCE BUDGET $11,850

$197,500 Expected to be Required to Operate
County During Next Year
POOR FUND CUT

Utilities Tax to Aid This Fund However

A saving of $11,850 was made in the 1933 budget, adopted Monday by the board of county commissioners.

Last year the total amount of the budget was $197,500, and this year it has been slashed to $185,650.

A general decrease in several departments was made in order to lower the sum. The largest slash was noted in the poor fund, which was reduced from $15,000 last year to $9,400, representing a decrease of $5,600. However, $14,000 for the one percent utilities tax which is to be distributed in January, 1933, will bolster up the poor fund, according to T. D. Krinn, deputy auditor.

TRIAL COST HIGH

An increase was shown in the judicial fund. This was raised from $14,500 to $24,150. The difference of $9,650 was needed because of the recent Kidney murder trials, according to J. W. Hay, president of the board of commissioners.

The appropriations for various departments in 1932 and 1933 is shown below:

DEPT.	1932	1933
County	$87,500	$97,500
Poor	15,000	9,400
Children's Home	3,760	3,000
Soldier's Relief	2,500	2,500

Judicial	21,150	24,150

RUSHING TRAIN LEAVES RAILS

No. 15 of Pennsylvania Lines
Hurries East of Chicago; No One Hurt.

HAMLET, Ind., July 19.—Train No. 15 of the Pennsylvania railroad system flew off the rails near here early today as it was hurtling on its way from New York to Chicago.

Company officials told International News Service there were no deaths or serious injuries in the wreck.

Fifteen coaches of the train, which is a combination passenger and express carrier, left the tracks, only the locomotive and last car standing.

A broken flange was the cause of the wreck.

A company doctor was sent to the scene from Hamlet to treat passengers for minor bruises and cuts, in case such treatment should be found necessary.

Most of the train's coaches were express cars. Only a few passenger coaches were aboard and their conductors were to the rear of the train.

The express cars were the most seriously damaged, some of them having telescoped into each other before they fell off the tracks.

The accident tore up a half mile of rails.

The scene of the wreck is approximately 70 miles east of Chicago.

JUDGE DEFENDS WHIPPING POST

MILLERSBURG, July 19.—Ohio's "whipping judge," defending himself against a storm of criticism, declared that 20 lashes is "proper" punishment for persons who cannot be educated into respect for the law.

The judge, Robert B. Putman of Holmes co., who caused a furore recently when he sentenced two men to a public whipping for stealing a $3 refrigerator, vigorously upheld his action.

"Some people can be educated into respect for the law, others must be jolted into it. If it takes a jolt, this court is prepared to jolt. I believe in doing something to meet the present crisis rather than allow things to drift," Judge Putman said in a statement.

"In proper cases, why not whipping?"

YOUTH ADMITS STRIKING TWO

Columbus Boy's Arrest Caused
By Father; Hunt For Hit-
Skip Driver Since

COLUMBUS, July 19.—Turned over to police by his father, 19-year-old Louis W. Cott, high school senior, was held in jail today after allegedly confessing he was the hit-skip driver who killed an 11-year-old girl and her aunt in downtown Columbus Saturday night.

The youth, who said he was on a "date" and "too scared to stop," will be formally charged with the two deaths sometime today, police said. The victims were Etta Vincent Montgomery, 11, and Mrs. Clara Shaw, 48.

Police said they have not decided what charges will be placed against the boy.

Young Cott's father, Emerson Cott, brought about his son's arrest when he appealed to Detective Chief Eugene Ebricht to learn whether the boy had been in any trouble over the week-end. The boy's behavior, he said, had been "suspicious."

Ebricht, who was directing an intensive search for the hit-skip driver who caused the two deaths at once connected young Cott with the accident. Detectives then obtained the alleged confession.

His parole was approved by Judge Adkins, Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Prosecutor E. L. Criss.

Baby Mix-up 12 Years Ago Charged By Mother Who Demands Exchange

GLADENACH, Germany, July 19.—A strange hospital tangle, recalling the famous Chicago baby mix-up, ended satisfactorily today when counsel for one German mother announced she would not contest the finding of a court, ordering her to transfer to another woman the 12-year-old boy she had believed her own, and accept in his stead another lad the same age, who is a stranger to her.

Recalling the famous Chicago baby mix-up that created worldwide attention last May, Mrs. Dora had a suit on in court to force Frau Mathilda Reith to exchange sons born 12 years ago in a maternity clinic.

The prospects appear excellent that she will win a favorable decision although a furious controversy is raging in this city of over 190,000 over the wisdom of making the boys unhappy by giving them to natural parents who are really strangers to them.

Frau Dora, on her petition, declares she sustained and protested to the nurses that they had brought her the wrong baby when she gave birth to a child in 1920.

But the hospital authorities finally convinced her that their marking system was flawless and there could be no error. Birth records, they told her, there were only two lads born in the hospital at the time.

A few months ago she charged to meet Heinrich, the son of Frau Reith on the street and found his resemblance to her eldest son so striking she became convinced she had been given the wrong baby at the hospital. The Beuths after some argument, agreed to allow scientists to make examinations.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 19.—Struck by an automobile while crossing the street, Clarence Kern 42, was dead today at his home at Avondale, a suburb.

ACTION IS REFUSED

Hearing Is Scheduled for
Wednesday at 10

Efforts to save Arthur Little, 39, negro, from the electric chair for his part in the murder of John Kidney last Dec. 10, will be continued before the state board of clemency beginning at 10 a. m. Wednesday and from indications every possible factor that might be brought into play to save the man will be made.

MISS KIDNEY'S AID ASKED FOR ARTHUR LITTLE

Invalid Sister of Slain Man Approached to Intervene for Negro

ACTION IS REFUSED

Hearing Is Scheduled for
Wednesday at 10

A report that much influence is being brought to bear in the attempt to save Little was made public by Prosecuting Attorney Crist, Tuesday, when he declared that Miss Sarah Kidney, invalid sister and only survivor of John Kidney, had told him she had been approached at two different times and asked to go before the board of clemency to ask that Little not be sent to the electric chair or that she write Governor George White asking him to commute sentence.

REFUSED REQUEST

She refused to consent to do either she informed Mr. Crist. The name of the person who approached her was not disclosed, although it was not Little's attorney.

Although unconfirmed, it was reported here Tuesday that friends of the condemned man living in Marion had employed an attorney to assist Harry B. Weaver, appointed by the court here to defend the colored man who was captured in North Carolina after evading arrest in Hanford friends.

Little has numerous friends in the Marion vicinity. It is understood, including a man he worked for, until discharged early last fall because of lack of business. This man testified as to Little's character during the trial here.

Emmitt L. Crist, prosecuting attorney, and Max C. Seyfert, Jr., appointed as assistant counsel in the case, will appear before the board to fight any effort to commute sentence to life imprisonment.

NEGRO FORGES CHECK, CAUGHT AS BUS STOPS

Jesse Steele, 42, colored of Chillicothe, has probably learned it doesn't pay to forge checks.

He allegedly forged a check for $12.40 in Chillicothe, Monday, and left at once on the Valley Public Service bus for Circleville.

A Chillicothe woman, the victim, at once notified Chillicothe police and the latter called Sheriff Radcliff to watch for the man.

Sheriff Radcliff and Officer Will McCready met the 3:15 p. m. bus and found Mr. Steele. He confessed to the crime and turned over $11.20 to the sheriff he had spent but $1.20 of the check.

According to Sheriff Radcliff, he is on parole from Ohio penitentiary.

Mrs. Kennedy-Hudson Files Suit For Divorce From Man
She Married Year Ago Charging He Drank; "When He Mentioned Love He Meant Dough,"
She Says.

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy-Hudson, mother of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson - Hutton, the evangelist, today had on file a suit to divorce Guy E. "What-a-Man" Hudson whom she married a year ago in a romantic setting on the shore of a lake in Washington.

Mrs. Hudson charged that Hudson drank excessively, was cruel, and used abusive profanity.

"He was 'What-a-Man' when I married him, but I really should have called him 'What-a-Flop,'" declared Mrs. Hudson.

"I'm just a little girl trying to get along and I can't stand the strain any longer," she said. "I am an evangelist and I want to save souls. Heaven knows I tried in vain to save him, but you can't save a soul unless there is one to save. He didn't even have a heart."

Mrs. Hudson said that in their year of married life Hudson had borrowed $4540 from her.

"And he hasn't got a cent now, and he hasn't got a job," she declared. "Whenever he mentioned 'love' to me he really meant 'dough.'"

"He never came home except to rest up after his drinks, and to borrow more money," Mrs. Hudson said.

Governor Plans To Aid Farmer

Assessments for Roads Built in Past Years Would be Lowered According to White's Plan; 20 Million in Old Tax Still Outstanding, He Declares

COLUMBUS, July 19.—Ohio farmers, burdened down with assessments for roads built in years past, today were promised relief by Governor George White, who announced that the state legislature will be asked to reduce those assessments still being levied.

A bill is being prepared by the governor for presentation to the special session of the general assembly, expected to be called early in September, providing for the use of state highway funds to partially pay for the roads.

USED OLD LAW.

Under an old law, farmers were forced to pay for road improvements past their homes. Although recent legislatures have shifted the cost of road-building to motorists through the gasoline tax, many farmers still are paying for roads built before the law was changed.

About $20,000,000 in taxes for such roads is still outstanding against Ohio property owners. The tax has caused many farmers to give up their property.

Ohio owes a "just debt" to those farmers who are suffering from the old plan, the governor said in a statement issued at the state house. Highway funds collected from the gasoline tax could be used, he added.

"I do not advocate a general diversion of the gasoline tax from its intended purpose but I do believe the motorists themselves will agree that this is a just debt and that by avoiding it they are aggravating one of our most serious economic problems," Governor White said.

Chocolate defeated Berg in every department save unbridled courage. Berg hasn't taken such a licking since the night he met Tony Canzoneri in their return bout.

'LEADPROOF BILL' DIES
SULLIVAN'S HOLLOW, Miss—
The recent death of "Wild Bill" Sullivan ended the career of the last of Mississippi's feud fighters—age 66, the old Irishman at last where for 91 years bullets had failed. Bill, called "Leadproof" by his mother, was a descendant of the Sullivan boys who settled the Hollow in 1810, and the last of the clan.

Victors in Olympic Trials

GRIMES' DEFEATS ARE CAUSING WORRY AMONG HIS FOLLOWERS

CHICAGO, July 19.—Hurly-burly Burleigh Grimes is "on the spot." The "has-been" spectre is casting its shadow over Burleigh and his saliva-ball.

Six losses in his last seven starts started the baseball tongues wagging and the ghost walking.

But it isn't only the losses. It is the way the lads sent the old veteran to the showers in solitary ignominy under a merciless barrage of base and extra-base hits.

A barrage of hits is no novelty to Burleigh. He always let the lads fatten their batting averages and build up a spring hold-out excuse, but he usually tightened up when the going got rough and set them down as he pleased when he pleased.

In his last seven games Burleigh has hurled thirty-three innings, has been scored on thirty-two times, and has been battered for forty-nine hits. And he has issued fifteen free trips to first. This on a club playing better than 500 ball.

Burleigh has been a winning pitcher in the Big Show for fifteen years. A combination of pitching skill and fighting heart has kept him in the big time for that period.

The fighting heart is as courageous as ever. But the Cubs' fans are beginning to wonder about the cunning and skill of that ageing arm.

Grimes started the '32 season with three successive victories. Then he repeated — on the losing side of the ledger. He chalked up his fourth victory against the Giants on June 16, and since then has lost four straight.

And to make it tougher for the old spit-baller, young Bud Tinning is pacing up and down the Cubs' bull pen, itching to take his turn on the mound as a starting pitcher.

Hornsby has been keeping the sensational Des Moines youngster under wraps, using him as a relief pitcher while he gains experience in the Big Show.

Charley Root is proving a trial to Manager Hornsby. Cholly, with Burleigh counted on to serve as the nucleus of the Bruins' mound staff, has failed to turn in a winning record.

VETERANS UPHOLD RULE OF LINKS DURING THIS SEASON

By GENE LAWRENCE
International News Service
Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 19.—With only the National Amateur championship left undecided the veterans of goldfom have won the major share of honors this year. Upholding their rule of the links the old timers have shown the way once again to the youngsters.

Tried and true veterans have won the three most important titles decided so far this year while the newcomers and youngsters wilted and cracked under the strain of championship play.

Such stars as Gene Sarazen, Francis Ouimet and Walter Hagen, have swept the golf calendar to date. Close on their heels in these major engagements were other veterans such as MacDonald Smith, Bobby Cruikshank, Joe Turnesa and Johnny Farrell.

The prodigies and champions of the future gained nothing but experience in matching strokes with these stars.

Sarazen tops the list with his sensational victories in the British Open and the National Open. His record breaking 287 at Sandwich is a mark that future golfers will find hard to crack.

Following his startling victory abroad where the world's best golfers trailed him Sarazen added another outstanding triumph to his list when he won the U. S. Open at Fresh Meadow, N. Y. A 21 in the trail behind him was left by the promising youngster.

Gene's iron work and superb golf too much for them. Ouimet came back strong to capture the Massa. Ouimet recently after many believed he was going days over as the result of his defeat in the Walker Cup matches in 1930. Bobby Cruikshank, Whiffy Cox, Joe Turnesa and Johnny Farrell were unable to match his score in the Bay State event.

MacDonald Smith is another veteran who continues to play a top notch game. He was runner up to Sarazen in the British Open with a card of 288 and last winter he won the Los Angeles open crown.

Cruikshank can be included among the veterans. The fact that he still is a crack player can be found in his performance at Fresh Meadow where he shot two rounds of 69 and 68 to tie for second place.

Phil Perkins, who deadlocked with Cruikshank, is anything but a youngster in goldfom. He won the English Amateur title in 1928 and was Bobby Jones' chief contender in the U. S. Amateur the same year. For three years Phil was low amateur in the British open.

The appellation may be used in the National Amateur at Baltimore in September with the pros on the sidelines, but there are enough veteran amateurs around to supply plenty of competition.

POSTAL INSPECTORS TO WATCH MAIL SENT ON FIRST OF MONTH

CLEVELAND, July 19.—Postal inspectors for the Northern Ohio federal district are laying plans to keep a "watchful eye on the volume of mail going through the postoffices early next month.

It is early every month, you know, when all the bills trickle in and the postal inspectors are wondering if the recent increase in mail rates will affect the number of bills sent through the mails.

Should some company usually mailing a large number of bills not do so at the customary time next month, there will be an inquiry: "Why?"

U. S. HAS MONOPOLY
There is a law, it seems, giving the United States government an absolute monopoly in the business of mailing and delivering letters.

And the "watchful eye" will be set for companies which may decide it would be cheaper to hire their letters delivered by private messenger than by paying three cents per copy to Uncle Sam.

RECORD ACHIEVED BY R. R. DISTRICT

One of the best records in passenger train performances ever made in the Central region of the Pennsylvania Railroad was achieved last month when 99.2 percent of the passenger trains in the region operated on scheduled time, it was announced today by local officials.

Of the 13,955 passenger trains operated in the region during the month only a few failed to make their schedules.

Last month's achievement in almost perfect train movement is the best ever established in the Central region for the month of June.

In the last six months an even 99 percent of all the railroad's passenger trains were operated on scheduled time.

During June the Monongahela and Buffalo divisions with headquarters at Pittsburgh and Buffalo respectively operated their passenger trains 99.8 per cent on schedule; the Conemaugh division with offices at Pittsburgh made 99.7 per cent while the Renovo division with headquarters at Erie rolled up a 99.6 percent record.

On the Cleveland division, 99.5 percent of the passenger trains made their schedules.

The Central region of the Pennsylvania serves the states of Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, and Ohio.

The law in the case reads: "Whoever shall establish any private express for conveyance of letters by regular trips at stated periods over any established postal route shall be fined $500 and sentenced to not more than six months in the penitentiary."

A peculiar quirk in the law is giving the inspectors something to think about, however. An amendment, tacked on the original bill apparently for the benefit of telegraph companies, reads:

"Delivery of letters by private hands without compensation or by special messenger employed for the particular occasion cannot be construed as a violation under this statute."

It has been suggested that nothing could stop some company with several thousand bills from calling up an individual or messenger service concern and ordering it to deliver its letters on a certain date.

That type of contract, it was pointed out, would not violate the section of the law which prohibits transportation and delivery of letters "by regular trips at stated periods over established postal routes."

Postal inspectors replied, however, that if some company does resort to that method of delivering its bills, prompt notification of the act will be sent to the Postoffice Department in Washington with a recommendation that a test suit be filed in court.

'THIRD DEGREE'

saw," Littleton quoted Tappen as saying then.

"I had to stand with one foot on his neck and one on his stomach and rock back forth."

Tappen, who sustained a sprained ankle Friday, is more than six feet tall and weighs more than 200 pounds.

Another dramatic scene was enacted in the crowded courtroom over which Justice Meier Steinbrink presided when three youths arrested with Stark fearfully but positively pointed out ten policemen and detectives from a lineup of about 30 as those who put them through the intensive "third degree."

TOLD OF TERRORS
They told tremblingly of blows with fists, beatings with corrugated and smooth rubber hose lengths, kicks with feet and beatings with heavy ledgers, blackjacks and a shoe which they said the police force members inflicted in them.

Joseph Hlzenski, son of the 64-year-old woman whom the arrested quartet was accused of beating and robbing of $4 and a ring, admitted on the stand he twice attacked Stark on the day the latter was arrested.

He said, however, he only "slapped" him in the face. He denied inflicting the injury which fractured Stark's larynx and caused his death.

Stark's body, according to official evidence, bore many red welts, bruises and black spots. The three companions who identified themselves as those who slugged them showed evidence of violence. Their eyes were blackened, their faces and bodies bore bruises and marks.

CLAIMS PERJURY
With policemen apparently reluctant to testify, many displaying poor memory on points which happened within a day or two in their presence, and conflicting evidence in their stories, Justice Steinbrink several times before adjournment said the tangled tales gave every evidence that perjury was being committed.

The justice declared he would weigh the testimony today and announce his decision tomorrow.

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards said if a basis for charging homicide or prejury against any of the policemen involved was found by Justice Steinbrink, he would call a special session of the country grand jury probably Thursday to consider the case.

Among those suspended were Deputy Chief Tappen and Detective Hlzenski. The policemen placed under arrest were released later in custody of Police Chief Skidmore.

Stark's body, according to official evidence, bore many red welts, bruises and black spots. The three companions who identified themselves as those who slugged them showed evidence of violence. Their eyes were blackened, their faces and bodies bore bruises and marks.

Demagoguery Vetoed

PRESIDENT Hoover's veto of the Garner relief bill has the support of every clear thinking citizen who has taken time to study the bill and the objections from the white house.

Any citizen who will think this thing through in the light of sound American tradition and simple logic will have little difficulty in coming to the same conclusion that the president so forcefully expressed.

"This proposal violates every sound principle of public finance and of government. Never before has so dangerous a suggestion been seriously made to our country."

The appalling thing about the whole incident is that such a monstrous piece of legislation could pass both houses of congress. Only a clear head and strong mind in the white house saved the nation from this infamy.

Had not the president prevented this measure from becoming law every improvident and spendthrift state, municipality, corporation, financial institution and individual could dump its financial responsibilities up on the federal government. It did not make the reconstruction finance corporation more useful to the "forgotten man," it merely opened the gates to the gross misuse of its funds.

The veto message cannot be said to have been destructive without suggesting a substitute. It was constructive in having specifically indicated amendments which would have carried out the purposes intended, without danger to the budget or violence to sound financial and economic principles.

The Taxation Base

JUSTIFICATION for the broadening of the federal tax base is found in the internal revenue collections for the last fiscal year. Chiefly responsible for the slump to a billion and a half is the fact that the national government has leaned too heavily on corporate and individual income taxes, which failed to produce last year.

The financial distress in which the government has found itself argues for sharp reductions in government costs, but should Washington, due to the system or the indisputable nature of the services rendered, find it impossible to bring expenditures down to the reduced tax capacity of the people the present policy of broadening the tax base shall of necessity become permanent.

Herein lies the chief argument for sales taxes. The tobacco tax, for example, produces a more stable revenue than the income tax. Gasoline tax collections show no such fluctuations as those which have made the income tax undependable as a source of revenue.

When conditions return to normal congress should hesitate before returning to the old order entirely. The more variations of the nuisance taxes should be reduced or removed as soon as the rank and file of consumers are able to support it a modified sales tax should supplement the income taxes to provide a stabilized revenue.

Under the old system there is too great temptation in flush years to governmental extravagance and in lean years a too much need for violent readjustment.

Optimism In the West

SO long has pessimism reigned in the Middle West, where the depression struck years sooner than it did in the industrial East, that when a cautious sort of optimism shows its head everyone holds his breath for fear of blowing out the fluttering flames. That is the case at this moment.

Hog prices have risen 7 per cent in a month, cattle prices up 17 per cent and both wheat and corn are slowly but steadily gaining. Agriculture, the chronic invalid, is lifting the buying power of almost half the people from the bottom of the economic canyon.

It isn't that the improved market is artificial and therefore will not stand the light of day. There are convincing facts to bolster the hopes of the confident. The loan pressure which forced cattle out of the market a year ago has been relieved. Hog prices have been raised to lure an adequate supply into the market, and the wheat and corn yields carry no threat of surplus.

The farm board has been virtually forced out of the market, and only the Middle West, where for whose special purpose the board was created is said to be giving a sign of relief. It is contended that instead of forcing up the market the farm board, because of its grain surpluses, has been weighing down the grain markets for two years. Now that the surpluses have approached the vanishing point and the farm board is through as a factor in the market there is a degree of optimism.

Can it be that the depression has also bit the rebel business? That is what the peace.

EMBERS OF LOVE

SYNOPSIS

Lily Lou Lansing, young and pretty telephone operator, gives up every opportunity for an operatic career to marry wealthy Ken Sargent. Ken's mother wanted him to marry the socially prominent Peggy Sage and threatens to have the marriage annulled. Ken and Lily Lou are startled, but she assures him she will stick by him regardless of what happens. Ken loses his position with his father but secures a better one. The young couple take a small apartment and are ideally happy. Then, one night, Lily Lou awakens to hear Ken sobbing. Next day, Lily Lou meets Peggy Sage, and is stunned to learn from her that Ken lost his job. Later, she is relieved when Ken explains he did not take her into his confidence because he wanted her to be proud of him. After Ken leaves the next morning, his father visits Lily Lou. He asks her to give up Ken and informs her their marriage was annulled. Feeling that Ken no longer cares, Lily Lou leaves San Francisco for New York.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

She sank into her place, turned her face to the darkening window, slowly she looked down at her dress. It was her black crepe de chine, with the cape. The one she got last spring . . . when she first met Ken . . . Would everything, forever, remind her of him? "I'll buy new ones in New York," she thought, recklessly, and for a moment she felt comforted. But alas, she couldn't get rid of herself . . . her body that he had loved, her mind that was full of memories, her heart that was full of pain . . .

She pressed her cold hands to her smarting eyes . . . Mustn't think . . . Mustn't give way . . . People would notice . . .

Furtively she looked around. Drew a long breath. Nobody seemed to be watching. Once more she turned her pallid face towards the blank darkness of the window.

Well . . . she was on her way to New York. She'd wanted to go to New York . . . once . . .

She smiled bitterly to herself, and the corners of her mouth felt stiff and cracked . . . unused to smiles already . . .

Who was it said that you get everything you want, after you've stopped wanting it? Well, want it or not, she was on her way. No turning back now.

She sat, staring at nothing, until the porter was ready to make her berth. Then she climbed in, fully dressed, and lay there, staring at the shiny wooden ceiling above her, wide, sleepless eyes.

At the other end of the car a child cried, sleepily. It made her think of Bess' little boy. She'd have to write to Bess, and to her mother, and May . . .

Painfully she sat up, began to rummage in her suitcase for writing materials.

"When Kentfield Sargent and I were married, he was not 21. His father and mother have had the marriage annulled. So, for the present at least, we are separated. It will help us both if you never refer to this episode in my life, in any way."

"Ken will return to his people. I am going on to New York to study. I will write often. Please don't worry. I know exactly how you will feel, so you need not tell me. I am all right. I'm having my big chance, so please, please don't make it harder for me!"

That last sounded hysterical, but she couldn't help it. She signed and sealed the letter. Began one to her mother . . .

The black writing looked ominous on the white page . . . She wasn't starting it right. It must seem to be her wish, her own desire. If she thought that Ken and his father had just turned her out, with $500, and a railway ticket, like a cheap adventuress . . .

"I'm Mrs. Sargent," she said. "It's for me."

She thought of the shotgun . . . Dad was always threatening to take a shot at someone. He wouldn't, of course, but suppose he did . . . that would be just too much . . . a shooting scrape, and Ken's people keeping it out of the papers, while somebody, a sheriff or somebody, led Dad away . . .

She tore up the letter. Perhaps in the morning . . . With the writing materials put away, and the suitcase pushed to one side of the berth again she resumed her senseless staring at the brightly varnished ceiling above her head.

She pictured May getting the letter, and Raymond puffing on his pipe as she read it to him . . . and his father's head-shakings, and Irene's catty, "Humph— I knew it wouldn't last"— And the long distance gossip of May and Bess . . . Bess's fat letters, rather mussy from sticky baby fingers, and May's typewritten in the office . . .

She pictured Ken's mother, and her satisfied smile, and Ken's father, trying to act as if nothing had happened, and Ken . . .

But she wouldn't let herself think of Ken . . .

High Blood Pressure Dangerous Because It Overtaxes the Heart

Various Causes Produce This Condition, Which Cannot Be Cured by Medicine, but Requires Rest and Freedom from Mental or Physical Fatigue or Emotional Excitement

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 United States Senator from New York.
 Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WORRY, fear and emotional excitement are among the most common causes of high blood pressure, and during our present unusual times it is probable that an unusual number of persons suffer from it. There are many causes of high blood pressure, but the most common are worry, fear and emotional excitement. These causes produce a condition which cannot be cured by medicine, but requires rest and freedom from mental or physical fatigue or emotional excitement.

Exertion, there is emotional strain, the blood pressure will be raised to a considerable length of time. Within the last decade the subject of focal infection has aroused great interest, and though not definitely the cause of high blood pressure, infections in diseased teeth, tonsils, nasal sinuses, the gall bladder and appendix must be considered as important factors in producing high pressure.

These centers of infection should be removed whenever possible. In addition to their relation to high blood pressure, they are detrimental to the general health of the body. Persistent high blood pressure is dangerous. It places more work upon the heart, and may weaken and damage this vital organ, as the heart becomes enlarged and its muscles weak.

In addition, high blood pressure may affect the kidneys. Bright's disease and other forms of kidney disease are often associated with high pressure. Many of the simple causes I have mentioned are too frequently overlooked by the sufferer.

Too much is expected of medicines, for as a matter of fact very little benefit can be derived from medicines for the cure of high blood pressure. The relief given by medicines is only temporary. Persons with high blood pressure require rest and careful attention. All excitement and severe exertion should be avoided. Mental or physical fatigue is dangerous.

Hot baths and cold baths are harmful, but warm baths are beneficial. Daily intestinal elimination is essential, and if necessary an enema should be taken to avoid any tendency to constipation, because this results in the collection of poisons within the body. Above all, seek rest, relaxation and freedom from worry or excitement.

United States-Canadian Treaty Provides for 1,677-Mile Waterway from Montreal to Duluth. Two Million Horsepower Hydro-electric Plant a Feature of International Plan.

Above is the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River area in which the United States and Canada are to create an international seaway reaching from Duluth, Minn., to Montreal, Canada, and giving access to the Middle West to ocean commerce. The project is to cost approximately $800,000,000, will employ about 20,000 men and require seven years to complete. A treaty for the enterprise has been agreed to by the Washington and Ottawa governments. In inset is shown the territory extending for 48 miles on the border of New York State which is involved in the power development program, calling for the construction of two dams and powerhouses which will generate 2,000,000 horsepower. This feature of the plan has met with opposition by New York State authorities, who take the stand that the matter of cost should have been agreed upon by the State and Federal governments before any treaty with Canada was completed. It will be recalled that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt offered to confer with President Hoover on the matter recently, but the Chief Executive took the position that the project was solely a matter for Federal handling. So the international arrangements were concluded without New York State having had a voice in the matter. Officials are incensed at what they believe to be the usurpation of State rights in the power question and a legal battle before the U. S. Supreme Court is probable. New York officials further assert that the State's share of the cost of the undertaking ($150,000,000) is double what it can afford to pay if distribution of power is to be kept within cost of public production.

BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

BY HARRISON CARROLL.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—As further proof of Hollywood's growing importance as a style center, one of the national magazines may shortly offer its women subscribers patterns of gowns worn by some of our more glamorous stars.

The idea is to secure original sketches from the studio designers and print them about the time of the picture's release. Thus, the film company gets a plug for its production and the magazine acquires a feature that will go big with the cinema fans.

Just how big may be guessed from the hundreds of letters studios receive from women who would copy gowns they admire on the backs of their favorite film stars.

As motion picture styles always are in advance of the times, these studio designs would be up-to-date.

SALADS

Hot weather meals often can be improved by including delicious salads in the menu, according to nutrition specialists for the department of home economics at the Ohio State University.

Among the scores of good salads that may be prepared by the homemaker, they say, are cottage cheese and tomato, fruit, potato salad, tomato and lettuce, waldorf salad, candle salad, cabbage and apples or banana salad, and daisy salad.

A good recipe for potato salad they find, is 3 cups of diced cooked potatoes; 2 to 3 eggs diced; 1-2 cup diced celery, carrot or cabbage; 1-2 cup diced cucumber; 1-2 cup ground carrot; 1 tablespoonful minced parsley; and 1 teaspoonful onion.

In making waldorf salad, they suggest 4 cups of diced apples; 2 cups diced celery; 1 cup drained canned cherries; and 1-2 cup of chopped nuts.

Extension Telephones Pay Big Dividends in Comfort, Convenience

Upstairs, downstairs, and all around the house, extension telephones can save many steps and inconveniences.

In the kitchen, for example, an extension telephone helps to eliminate the risk of burning food. Having an extension telephone beside your bed not only saves you from getting up to answer calls but also gives you a feeling of protection at night.

And an extension telephone in the hall will permit you to carry on a conversation in private—without embarrassment to you or others.

We will gladly arrange to have an extension telephone placed wherever your household requires. Just call our office.

Did you hear the one about the Hollywood actor who came up excitedly to a friend and said:

"Say, I was just over to the office of a well-known director on this lot—his secretary was out so, without thinking, I walked into the inner office. And who do you suppose? He was kissing a beautiful girl."

"Yeah," said the friend, "who was the girl?"

The actor whispered her name.

"You don't say. And who was the director?"

The actor drew back. "Say!" he exclaimed, "Do you think I'm a cad?"

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

Published by STEVENSON'S

VOL. 3. NO. 28.

Tuesday, July 19, 1932

"It's an ill wind that blows no good" runs an old adage. And it seems that no matter how unfortunate some folks are, it works to the benefit of others. You've noticed it, haven't you? Well, for some reason or another, our stock of trellises is too large for this time of the year. We don't want to carry them over for another season and we want the room for our fall stock of Heatrolas. We decided to offer them to you folks for a "song," regardless of their cost or selling price. Take, for instance, our stock of 17 1/2 in. (wide) by 8 foot (high) trellises. We're willing to take but $1.25 each for the one pattern and $1.35 each for the other one. And then we have some that are 35 inches wide and 8 feet tall—three patterns—at only $1.70 each for your choice of two patterns and $1.95 each for the other one. At such prices for well-made trellises, and painted a pure white, surely you'll provide something on which your posies and roses can climb.

And then there's another item that we'd like to clean out at cost or under. We've a number of lawn ornaments that we'll trade you for 45 cents (for the smaller ones) and $1.15 for the larger ones. With each ornament there is a steel rod for holding them upright. Tie your tall growing flowers to the tall rod and stick a small ornament on top of it and notice how passers-by will look at them.

Stock of trellises and ornaments is limited and these prices apply only to stock on hand. First come, first served.

By golly, we had the cockles of our heart warmed again last week. A Heatrola user of four years experience with the genuine article (made by Estate Stove Co.) came into our store and "tipped" us off to the fact that he knew two families that are talking of purchasing a new heating appliance this fall. He wanted us to be sure to sell them an Estate Heatrola. While we appreciate being "tipped off," we honestly believe that the fact that after using his Heatrola for four winters he is so satisfied with his heater that he's willing to tell us of his friends' needs, pleased us still more. We like to sell goods, but if there is no customer-satisfaction, what's the use of making a sale? Yes, Heatrola customers are satisfied with their purchases. With Heatrola prices starting as low as $34.75, we can see no reason why a lot of homes should not be Heatrola-heated after this fall.

Doesn't it seem foolish, considering the present hot spell, to talk about heaters? But, it won't be long now until a little fire will feel good. Place your Heatrola order early and get it off your mind.

"What's a Greek urn?"

"Oh, about $25.00 a week unless he owns the restaurant."

It's most remarkable how beautiful the patterns in the Armstrong floor covering line are for this summer. And it's just as remarkable how cheaply a floor may be covered with this high-grade covering. One day last week a roll of nine foot wide goods came in. The pattern is suitable for kitchen, dining room, bed room, or even a living room. And it's so easily kept clean just wipe it off with a damp cloth.

A lady and her husband, whose winter home is in the state of New Jersey, came down from Lockbourne last week and purchased some furniture for their summer home. These folks appreciate the fact that they can purchase good furniture in Circleville at better prices than other nearby cities, even though some of them may be larger than old Roundtown. And yet, from the names that we see on the chattel mortgage list, as well as observing city furniture trucks upon our streets, we find that some of our folks think that they "can do better" in a large city. Yes, and some of these same folks are in business here in Roundtown, too.

Wouldn't they set up a howl if we purchased our home necessities out of town?

How we envy that young chap that will soon be enjoying himself at the expense of The Herald and local merchants at the Olympic games in Los Angeles!

There's a family of three adults, living just west of this city, that have had their meals prepared since last October on an Estate gas range, connected to a PYRO-FAX GAS outfit, for the small average cost of but 4-2-3 cents per meal. Although this family lives some two miles from the nearest gas main, this housewife has one of the most beautiful ranges in her kitchen that has ever been our privilege to install in either city or country. In addition to having such a fine range, adding beauty to her kitchen, this wife has had no fuel to haul, ashes to remove, wicks to trim, oil cans to fill or coal to carry. Besides all of that, her range has an insulated heat controlled oven, assuring her of an even temperature for her baking and roasting. And the pretty part of the whole thing is, an outfit of this kind costs no more than a good coal range. But look at the convenience!

"What were your father's last words?"

"There were no last words. Mother was with him to the end."

You folks that sleep upon springs that only suspend you, allowing your body to sink in the middle until you close up like a jack-knife, we just wish that you'd drop down to our store and see illustrations showing how your spinal column looks when you use that type of bed-spring. Until you get one of our good springs, you won't know what a good, healthful sleeping position is. Invest in a DE LUXE or a PERFECT and your body will remain in its natural position while you are sleeping. Your spine will be in a perfectly straight line. You'll have complete relaxation.

Kent very much tete-a-tete with Harry Edgington at the same place. That luncheon companion of Lita Grey Chaplin's at Levy's Tavern was Nick Jory, her manager. Just to prove they're still friendly, Grete Nissen and her husband Weldon Heyburn were dancing together at the frioles. Also Dorothy Lee and the ever attentive Marshall Duffield. Some airplane salesman has pocketed a nice commission from the new open job that Harry Bannister has just purchased. Wallace Beery wings it to the Grand Canyon today. The influenza-bug has sent Eric Asher to his bed for a few days. Seventeen stars are in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new list. All three of the Barrymores—Ethel, John and Lionel rate stellar billing. Also Helen Hayes. Something to think about is the fact that Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery top the recent popularity poll conducted by the Hollywood Herald. And among the more important items of the day is El Brendel's beef about a gopher in his yard which only comes out when you have your best clothes on and can't chase him.

Mention Mexico and the red flag is out for Tala Birell, Universal's foreign charmer. After paying a visit to Ti Juana, the European actress was stopped at the border by Mexican authorities because she had forgotten the visa extension on her passport. It took plenty of long-distance telephone calls etc., to straighten the matter out.

Universal, by the way, still searches for the right story to introduce this actress as a star. "Broken Hearts of Hollywood" has been shelved for the nonce, also the proposed adaptation of Zola's "Nana."

DID YOU KNOW—That Joan Blondell once was a girl scout in San Diego and won a medal for proficiency in the life saving course?
